ABSTRACT  This article presents a process to develop a model lamp for the phototherapy of the neonatal hyperbilirubinemia. This lamp model is based on innovative sources of light – light-emitting diodes that emit a blue light, that is of an appropriate spectral range for the treatment of the newborn and infant jaundice.

Keywords: neonatal phototherapy, distribution of bilirubin, LED light phototherapy