ABSTRACT  The article concerns rotational speed fluctuation of an low-power induction cage machine supplied with voltage containing subharmonics. The investigations were carried out with simulation method employing the preliminary 2D field model of the induction cage machine. The results of calculations were presented for voltage subharmonics of various frequencies.

Keywords: voltage quality, field modeling, induction motor, subharmonics